MEMORANDUM FOR SEE DISTRIBUTION

SUBJECT: Face-to-Face Annual Ethics and Acquisition Ethics Training for 2006

1. In light of recent high-profile ethics lapses within the Federal government, the Secretary of the Army has reaffirmed and continued the requirement for annual ethics training. During calendar year 2006, every Soldier and Army civilian employee will attend one hour of face-to-face ethics training.

2. Furthermore, the Secretary has again directed that every Soldier and Army civilian employee involved in the acquisition process receive an additional hour of ethics training to address recurring and emergent acquisition and contracting issues. Personnel involved in the acquisition process include Soldiers and civilians who meet any of the following criteria:

a. Working in an acquisition office, regardless of career field or military occupational specialty

b. Contracting Officer Representatives (CORs) and Contracting Officer Technical Representatives (COTRs);

c. Government purchase card (i.e., IMPAC) holders and Approving Officials; and

d. Any significant acquisition-related position as identified by a supervisor, manager or commander.

3. Additionally, the Secretary has directed that all Soldiers and Army civilians review three documents by 30 June 2006:

a. The Federal Oath of Office (5 U.S.C. § 3331);

b. The U.S. Army Statutory Requirement of Exemplary Service (10 U.S.C. § 3583); and

c. The Principles of Ethical Conduct for Government Officers and Employees.

Copies of these documents are attached to this memorandum. Each commander/director/activity chief will ensure 100% compliance within their organization and will certify to me on or before 30 June 2006 that all of their assigned Soldiers and civilian employees have reviewed these documents.

MEMORANDUM FOR
PRINCIPAL OFFICIALS OF HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
MACOM COMMANDERS

SUBJECT: Face-To-Face Annual Ethics and Acquisition Ethics Training for 2006

This memorandum reaffirms and continues the requirement for annual ethics training. During calendar year 2006, every Soldier and Army civilian employee will attend one hour of ethics training. Furthermore, every Soldier and civilian employee involved in the acquisition process will also be required to receive an additional hour of ethics training to address recurring and emergent acquisition and contracting issues. Only appointed ethics counselors will conduct training. The ethics training requirement is inapplicable to personnel serving in a combat zone. The ethical rules are applicable, however, in combat zones and the required training should be scheduled either before deployment or as soon as practicable after returning to home station.

In the recent Global War on Terror, the Army has, more than ever, become an advocate for American values—fair play, equal treatment, and respect for the rule of law. In conducting Army missions, we must be mindful of the ethical values which are the foundation for our role as America's representative to the world. Accordingly, I have attached (1) the Federal Oath of Office (5 U.S.C. § 3331); (2) the U.S. Army Statutory Requirement of Exemplary Service (10 U.S.C. § 3583); and (3) the Principles of Ethical Conduct for Government Officers and Employees (E.O. 12731, 55 F.R. 42547), and I direct that all Army personnel review these documents by June 30, 2006.

These documents and the annual face-to-face ethics and acquisition ethics training form a firm foundation for the Army Ethics Program, which I fully endorse and expect all personnel to follow. I have asked the Office of the Army General Counsel to inform me on a quarterly basis of the progress that your offices and commands are achieving in this training. My goal is to ensure that the Army never experiences an ethical misadventure that other federal agencies have had the misfortune to encounter and to avoid even the appearance of an ethical impropriety.
